Home on Colborne St. in Bradford where a 51-year-old Bradford woman was found deceased by South Simcoe Police, on Saturday, Nov. 21.

Bradford homicide charges laid

South Simcoe Police have arrested a 55-year-old Bradford man in connection with the death of his 49-year-old wife, in Bradford, on Nov. 21.

Around 11:30 a.m. on Saturday, Police attended a residence on Colborne St. in Bradford, and discovered the 49-year-old woman, deceased in the home.

The woman's husband was arrested in connection with the death, and charged with first degree murder.

Police also secured a home on Centre St., temporarily. "The occurrence was on Colborne, but we have reason to believe (the suspect) visited the house on Centre," said Staff Sgt. Steve Wilson when questioned about the activity. "We don't believe he entered. He just tried the door."

Police say the cause of the woman's death won't be released, but that family members have been notified and interviewed, and that the suspect is known to police.

"We can't release the victim's name, or any evidence that can be used in court," said Sgt. Wilson, noting that a Section 517 ban on the release of information is in place.

The suspect appeared in court via video link on Nov. 22, and was remanded in custody. He has been identified as Jose Fernandes, 55, of Bradford.

The Bradford couple have four children, one of whom is a resident of Midland.

"It's just a very tragic circumstance for everybody," said Wilson, noting that the family is not only dealing with the tragic death of their mother, but their father's bail hearing.

Fernandes appeared for court on November 25, by video link.

Police are still looking for witnesses or anyone who has information regarding the homicide. Contact Criminal Investigations at 905-775-3311 ext. 1032 or Crime Stoppers at 1-800-222-TIPS.

MIRIAM KING
Bradford Times

It seemed like a simple council decision: Allow hunting on Sundays, to give enthusiasts an extra day on the weekend to enjoy their sport.

On Nov. 17, resident Nancy Halbert came to council as a delegation, to present the other side of the story.

Halbert pointed out that if the Town of Bradford West Gwillimbury moves ahead, it will be the only municipality in the area permitting Sunday hunting. Innisfil, New Tecumseth, King Township, East Gwillimbury, Dufferin and Peel all maintain a ban.

"Why do we want to allow Sunday (hunting)? Sundays are the only day of the week you can ride bicycles, snowshoe, ski, without the risk of being shot," she told council. Halbert said that trespassing by hunters is an issue on rural properties and farms, including her own family's farm. "The hunters are shooting uncomfortably close to the fence line. We do not feel safe during hunting season." She suggested that if the town is planning to review its Discharge of Firearms bylaw, it should be looking at more "generous" separations between hunting areas and property lines.

Finally, she pointed out that the County of Simcoe permits hunting in its "Hodgson Forest Tract", better known to hikers and cyclists as the Coulson's Hill forest, despite the fact that it is a "very busy recreational hub at all times of the year... It is a tourist destination".

She has seen hunters' blinds within the forest. "The scariest thing is finding empty beer cans under the hunting shelters," Halbert said. "Guns and alcohol are not a good mix. Guns kill".

She called for a ban on hunting in the Hodgson Tract, due to its heavy recreational use and proximity to Hwy. 406, the town's Public Works building, and Magani Park, just across the street.

There are 13.6 million Ontarians, and only 100,000 members of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters, Halbert said, adding that she was speaking for the "silent majority, not... the vocal minority" when she asked council to reconsider its approval of Sunday hunting.

The item was on the agenda, under Committee of the Whole Recommendations - which are usually passed by council without question. Halbert asked that the item be pulled, to permit further discussion.

Speaking in Open Forum, 12th Line resident Mara Aron agreed and added her own experience. "I can bring you the No Trespassing signs (hunters) have shot up. They have taken down our fence line."

Since 2009, repeated calls to police have not brought a resolution, she said. "I don't feel safe walking my own property. Now you're going to add another day to this?"

asked that the recommendation be pulled for further discussion - and recommended stricter "penalties and repercussions" for infractions of the bylaw.

Deputy Mayor James Leduc continued to support Sunday hunting, but expressed surprise that hunting was a permitted use in the county for as long as it was. He promised to bring the issue forward at county council, and ask for a hunting ban at all three forest tracts in the municipality.

Councillor Mark Contois agreed. "We have a lot of hunters... The thing is, I don't want to see them in hiking areas."

He acknowledged that a ban on hunting in county forests will be up to the county, and urged council to wait for a staff report before making a final decision. "We have responsible people here. I know lots of them. I believe everybody can co-exist. The thing is to make sure they're not near our trails, not near our urban boundaries."

"Everybody says, ban Sunday... How is Sunday unsafe from Saturday?" wondered Councillor Raj Sandhu.

But Councillor Gary Baynes warned that, as the only municipality permitting Sunday hunting in the area, "hunters will come out of the GTA, they'll flock to Bradford West Gwillimbury".

Councillor Gary Lamb proposed that Sunday hunting should be allowed only on Ducks Unlimited property, along the Holland River. "Sunday is family day. If you're out for a walk, you don't want to hear guns," Lamb said. "I'm just looking for a compromise."

It was town staff that helped clarify the issue. CAO Geoff McKnight explained that if the recommendation was approved as written, and the town applied to the Ministry of Natural Resources to permit Sunday hunting, "It would be in effect."

Director of Legal Services and Administration Rebecca Murphy urged council to defer a decision until a staff report comes back, "encompassing all the discussion that happened tonight."

Council agreed to defer its decision.

Point of View

On guard against prejudice

The visit to Bradford of the Tour for Humanity bus during Holocaust Education Week couldn't have been better-timed.

A project of the Simon Wiesenthal Centre, the Tour for Humanity is described as "a mobile human rights education centre," providing information on diversity, democracy, Canadian Civic rights and responsibilities.

Although the primary focus is the Holocaust - the extermination of 6 million European Jews, and tens of millions of others deemed unfit by the Nazis - there is also a warning that genocide is not limited to the past, that the unscrupulous continue to play on insular fears to make scapegoats of "outsiders," that we must be ever-vigilant to recognize and halt prejudice and racism.

There has been a rising tide of prejudice against Muslims in Canada and the U.S., especially in the wake of the Paris terrorist attacks on Nov. 13 - even though it is clear that ISIS and Al-Qaeda do not represent Islam, or Muslims.

In fact, Muslims have often been the targets and victims of the violence. A bomb in a Beirut marketplace on Nov. 12 killed 44 and left more than 240 wounded, including women and children.

And the United Nations estimates that over 250,000 have died in Syria, victims of all sides in the conflict.

People have fled to refugee camps in countries like Lebanon, Jordan and Turkey because they fear for their lives, and the lives of their children - driven out by war, by bombings, and by attacks by ISIS.

For almost five years, they have waited either for the opportunity to go home - which seems less and less likely - or to find a safe haven, and a place to rebuild their lives.

Those are the refugees that Canada will welcome. They are not terrorists; they are the victims of terror.

And just as Muslims cannot be blamed for the actions of haters who pervert Islam, Canadians cannot be considered racists because of the actions of the few - the cowards who threatened and attacked women wearing hijab, or the arsonists who set fire to a mosque in Peterborough on Nov. 14.

In Peterborough, the community responded by raising over $88,000 through crowd-funding to cover the cost of rebuilding, and offered space in local churches for Muslim worship, until the work has been completed.

That's the kind of respect for diversity, the sense of community that we expect as Canadians, and hope to offer Syrian refugees.

Holocaust Education Week

MIRIAM KING/BRADFORD TIMES

The Bradford West Gwillimbury Diversity Committee held its first Holocaust Education Week in Bradford, with special speaker Andy Reil, who survived the Holocaust as a small child, and a visit from the Simon Wiesenthal Centre's Tour for Humanity - a bus that contains a mobile theatre. The Tour for Humanity provides information not only on the Holocaust that took the lives of 6 million Jewish inhabitants of Europe during the Second World War, and the lives of millions of other innocent victims, but also the threats that exist today, with the rising threat of racism and sectarian violence.

Letters to the Editor

PH AWARENESS MONTH

November is Pulmonary Hypertension (PH) Month and Lung Month. I am so pleased to report that we had another successful PH Challenge and Awareness event at the BWG Leisure Centre, Nov. 5-11, raising over $3,000 to date. There is still time to donate.

To all of you who worked so hard for this success, on behalf of the Pulmonary Hypertension Association of Canada, I offer my sincere thanks and gratitude. Very special thanks to the staff at the BWG Leisure Centre, for their partnership in hosting this event again - Manager of Recreation and Client Services Nick Warman; Fitness Supervisor Stephanie Uren; Personal Trainer Marianna Koljibabic, and Fitness Programmer Enrico Mazzone, as well as the facilities staff.

For the second year in a row, our very unique and much-sought-after Gold, Silver and Bronze medals were designed, made and generously donated by Laura Vree of Sweet Handmade cookies (many of you will have met her at the Bradford Farmers' Market). Laura also set up our event Facebook page, and was a valuable part of the planning team - thank you!

Our sincere thanks to Mayor Rob Keffer, who took time out of his very busy schedule (on budget day) to be with us at our awards ceremony on Nov. 12, to present the medals to winners that included Councillor Gary Baynes, who won Silver in Walking, Thank you also to Councillors Peter Ferragine, Ron Orr and Mark Contois who also attended.

There would be no fundraiser without participants, and we had some of the most enthusiastic and competitive people, who biked, walked, ran or swam to challenge themselves and raise funds for PH Research in Canada. Thank you to each of you for participating in this week-long challenge, while raising funds and awareness about this rare and incurable lung disease.

Thank you to Jody Hamilton of the Ontario Lung Association, who partnered with us and supported our PH Events for several years, and who shared her expertise on lung health.

The winner of the grand prize, for raising the most funds for PHA Canada, was PH patient Emily Dolan, who challenged herself to "Walk a Marathon" in the course of the week-long challenge. Seven years ago, she could not walk without gasping for every breath. At her diagnosis, we were told she had three months to live; new medications developed since then have had dramatically improved the quality of her life and the lives of many other PH patients. There are now nine approved treatments in Canada.

Donations can be made online at www.phacanada.ca/rathdon. Tax receipts will be provided for online donations of $10 or more. Cheques can be made out to PHA Canada, noting BWG PH Challenge, and mailed to PHA Canada, Suite 208, 1311 Howe St., Vancouver BC, V6Z 2P3.

- Installed minor underground storm and sanitary sewers and eliminated some redundant watermain
- Poured sidewalks on both sides of Melbourne
- Planted boulevards
- Constructed curbs
- Replaced street lights and added new energy efficient LED fixtures
- Added two new signalized intersections to control traffic safely and provide better pedestrian access to the school

The project also involved several temporary measures to minimize impact to residents and services, including creating a back driveway to the fire station, temporary pedestrian walkway, and both full and partial road closures.

We thank everyone for your patience and understanding during this process.

A look at the Bond Head water tower

MIRIAM KING

Bradford Times

Another piece of the infrastructure puzzle was presented to Bradford West Gwillimbury residents - the Bond Head water tower.

To be located north of County Rd. 86, between 5 Sideroad and County Rd. 27, the tower will have to be massive, according to the Public Information Centre held at the Bradford Library on Nov. 16. The storage tank will hold 4,800 cubic metres (4.8 million litres) of water, supplied by the John Fennel Reservoir, to service both the Highway 400 Employment lands and planned development in Bond Head.

Looking at a range of water storage options, the consultants have identified two preferred options - a glass-fused-to-steel tank on a concrete pedestal, or a more common welded steel tank on concrete pedestal, an option that accounts for "more than 75% of all elevated water storage applications." The choice was made largely on the basis of capital costs, maintenance costs, technical considerations, and "visual appeal."

The dimensions are impressive. The free-standing water tower would be approximately 48 metres (157') high; the concrete pedestal, 12 m. (40') in diameter; the tank 28 metres (92') in diameter.

Town staff and consultants were on hand to answer questions, hear concerns, and explain the process, which has seen the completion of a municipal environmental assessment, and archaeological assessment, geotechnical investigation of the soils, and a natural heritage review of the vegetation and wildlife are ongoing. The project is "not expected to create any significant environmental impacts."

The next steps in the process involve incorporating comments from the Public Information Centre, completing site investigations, and detailed design. The project is expected to go to tender late in 2015, with construction planned for 2017-2018.

Conservation study for Bond Head

MIRIAM KING

Bradford Times

Bradford West Gwillimbury Council has voted to move forward with a Heritage Conservation District Study for the Hamlet of Bond Head.

A total of $40,000 was set aside in last year's budget, for a Heritage Conservation District study in either Bond Head or in "Old Bradford", where many homes constructed in the 19th century remain. The BWG Heritage Committee on Nov. 2 recommended moving forward with the Bond Head study.

Bond Head resident and local historian David Chambers spoke in Open Forum on Nov. 17, encouraging council's support for the study. "We should plan our own destiny while we have the opportunity," he said, urging the town to negotiate with consultants to also include the "small and complete 19th century hamlet" of Newton Robinson at the same time, to effect cost-savings.

Councillor Gary Baynes, pointing to the push-back to the Bradford West Gwillimbury Heritage Committee's expanded Heritage Registry suggested deferring the study. "I think we should take our time with this one and think it through."

But Deputy Mayor James Lebac suggested that the process could provide information and "actually open some dialogue," creating a better understanding of heritage and "some better feedback."

"I think this study will bring forward a lot more information and make us more educated on it," agreed Councillor Peter Ferragine.

With new development planned in Bond Head within the next three years, the study was also seen as an important step in providing Bond Head's historic main street.

Council voted in support of the HCD Study for Bond Head. Newton Robinson was not included.

When Santa came to town...

MIRIAM KING

Bradford Times

More lights. More floats. More marching bands.

The 2015 Bradford West Gwillimbury Santa Claus Parade attracted record crowds and participants, as it made its way from Bradford District High School to the Bradford Community Centre on Saturday evening.

Along parts of the route, crowds were lined up three-deep, to watch as the parade passed.

The weather started off mild and clear. Floats marshalled at the high school, led by the Simcoe County Paramedics, collecting donations for their annual Toy Drive, and BWG Fire & Rescue, lights flashing and sirens blaring.

Marchers nearly made it to the end of the route before the rain began and the wind picked up, with gusts buffeting some of the final floats in the parade – including Santa's sleigh.

Santa sped through the final kilometres of the parade route, waving to the children, and encouraging them to make sure they ended up on the "Nice" list, before Christmas Eve.

This year, the Santa Claus parade was run by the Town of Bradford West Gwillimbury – but all of the volunteers with the former BWG Santa Claus Parade Committee were there, helping to organizing the parade, and walking the parade route to ensure another great welcome for Santa Claus.

Help build a mountain of toys

MIRIAM KING
Bradford Times

The BWG Events Group is partnering with RiverEdge Dental this year, for its third annual Toy Drive, taking place Saturday, Dec. 5, at Zehrs Market in Bradford.

The Toy Drive asks residents to help build a "mountain of toys" for the Children's Aid Society of Simcoe County, and the families it serves.

Nancy Green has been co-ordinator of the Christmas Toy program at the CAS for the past 28 years – ensuring that the efforts of local charities, groups and organizations are co-ordinated, and that "those who need help, get help."

There are about 800 families on the CAS active list, in need of assistance during the holiday season – and whether they celebrate Christmas, Hanukkah, Diwali, Kwanzaa or Eid, the families will receive holiday hampers, containing everything from socks and underwear, to toys for the children, grocery gift cards for a holiday meal, even small gifts for parents, "to help provide families with celebration."

Some of the families are in the care of Children's Aid, or are being supervised or receiving services from CAS. The list also includes foster families; Youth ages 17 and 18 in the Independent Living program; and still in school; and "Kin Families."

These days, there is an increasing number of grandparents, adults and uncles who are raising young children left in their care. It reflects the CAS policy, that "it's better for the child to be with kin," but there is often little support available for the relatives. Green makes sure they also receive holiday hampers.

The need is growing, especially among the working poor. "They are truly struggling, holding down two jobs to make ends meet," Green says. Many are single-parent families, reflecting divorce and abandonment. "It's very difficult. You can't maintain the same standard of living when you're on your own." And often it is the children who suffer.

But not at Christmas; not if Green and her staff have anything to say about it. They end up collecting, sorting and evaluating all of the donated toy and gift items, brought in through a variety of toy drives – matching donations with the needs and wishes of their families. They ensure that not only do kids in foster care receive gifts, but that they can also choose presents for their foster siblings – and that Youth in the Independent Living program, if they go home for the holidays, will come home to a holiday dinner.

All of the toys collected in South Simcoe will stay in South Simcoe for local families. Green co-ordinates with the local food bank, and organizations that include Barrie Christmas Cheer, and Innisfil Christmas for Kids, to ensure that there's no overlap of the lists.

The third annual BWG Events Group Toy Drive and fundraiser will take place Dec. 5 from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m., at Zehrs Market, 500 Holland Street West, with face-painting, Minions, The Chipmunks, live entertainment, a visit from Santa and Mrs. Claus, and more.

Toys for all ages are needed, but especially gifts for infants – diapers, wipes, infant development toys, sleepers, reusable baby bottles, bibs, sippy cups – and tweens or teens. The older kids appreciate toiletries, gift cards from popular clothing stores and movie passes, for an evening out that otherwise would be beyond their finances. Please: no video games or war toys.

There are also opportunities for donors to "adopt a family." The need is growing, but Green knows it can be filled. "The community is so generous," she says.

Pink Closet hosts a Girls' Night Out

BRADFORD TIMES STAFF

For a fourth year, The Pink Closet held its annual Holiday Girls' Night Out, Nov. 17 – not only an opportunity to introduce the store's Holiday and Winter clothing collections, but to benefit the Helping Hand Food Bank.

Admission to the RSVP-only event was a donation of non-perishable food for the food bank, and the event quickly "sold out."

The women enjoyed sparkling water and hors d'oeuvres, a fashion show featuring clothing and accessories from The Pink Closet, and the latest trends in make-up and hair by Brittany Buck Hair & Beauty Boutique. Local artist Erica Quattrin performed.

Every lady left with the gift of an Infinity scarf, and a 20% off coupon for the store, and there were plenty of give-aways donated by The Pink Closet, Brittany Buck Hair & Beauty, and Bradford Skin Clinic, to get everyone in a festive spirit.

Top trends for the holidays? "Tassels and bling!" says store owner Cindy Weidlich.

The Pink Closet is located at 444 Holland St. West, Unit 2, in the West Park Plaza.

Introducing the new Mrs. Claus at Upper Canada Mall

MIRIAM KING
Bradford Times

Santa Claus may represent the spirit of giving – but who really deals with all the details of the holiday season? Who organizes the family get-togethers, the office parties, the cookie exchanges, the decorating and the Christmas dinner? Mrs. Claus, that's who – and Upper Canada Mall has launched a new campaign to give her her due. 'I Am Mrs. Claus' is a nod to all the women who work hard to create a Merry Christmas, with enthusiasm, planning, style and grace.

At the launch, a stylishly-updated Mrs. Claus shared tips for holiday coping, DIY gift ideas and an invitation to celebrate women's contributions to the festive season.

"We take on the lion's share of the Christmas tradition. What don't we do?" said Mrs. Claus. "Sure, my partner helps a lot, but I say we're still the driving force behind this all!"

"This year, Mrs. Claus claims the credit," said Upper Canada Mall marketing director Jennifer Kleinberg, welcoming Mrs. Claus to the mall. "Do we really feel that Santa Claus picks all those gifts?"

The light-hearted campaign is designed to make the season less of a challenge, and more fun – offering extended shopping hours, Beta Sigma Phi charity gift-wrapping service, helpful gift guides and gift cards, and encouraging women to indulge themselves, just a little, in the midst of all the hustle and bustle, with a #MyMrsClaus gift to themselves.

Shoppers who share their Mrs. Claus gifts to themselves or follow Upper Canada Mall on Twitter or Instagram (using #MyMrsClausUpperCanadaMall) will have a chance to win a grand prize of a $500 Upper Canada Mall gift card.

"Let the elves take care of it – you get all glammed up!" said Kleinberg.

There's even something for those wanting to visit Mr. Claus. Santa will be at his village at the mall until Dec. 24, for professional photos with Santa – but this year, families can "lose the wail" by pre-booking a time slot for a visit, at uppercanadamall.com/events.

Holy Trinity Catholic High School hosted an Invitational Swim Meet at the BWG Leisure Centre, for schools within the Simcoe Muskoka Catholic District School Board.

Bradford's Holy Trinity Tigers competed against St. Joseph and St. Theresa Catholic High Schools from Barrie and Midland's St. Joan of Arc. The Joan of Arc team, although late in arriving at the leisure centre, won the first event - the Jr. Girls 200 Metrel Relay. Holy Trinity teams were second and third.

Holy Trinity's Stefan Ribeiro and team won the Jr. Boys' 200 Metrel Relay, and the HTHS Junior Boys dominated in competition. "Ironman" Diego Carvalho came in first in the Jr. Boys 50M Backstroke - in fact, teammates Gavin McAuley, John Kurt Andreachi and Stefan Ribeiro made it a clean sweep of the top four positions.

Carvalho also won the Jr. Boys 100M IM and 100M Freestyle, and led the team to a first in the Jr. Boys Freestyle Relay. McAuley and Carvalho fin-

Ready for winter

MIRIAM KING
Bradford Times

In a timely move, Bradford West Gwillimbury council has recommended approval of a Winter Operation policy, that sets the minimum standards for winter snow removal and road clearance.

The Winter 2015-2016 Operations Plan was presented to Committee of the Whole on Nov. 17. It prioritizes the town's 562 lane km of roads and 111 lane km of sidewalks, based primarily on whether a street is a major arterial, a connector, or a less important side street.

The plan calls for monitoring of weather and road conditions during the winter season, and proposes that plowing will be triggered by the accumulation of 5 cm (2") on top priority roads, with clearance effected within six to 12 hours.

On less important roads, accumulations could reach right to 10 cm before the plows are called out, with clearance within 16 to 24 hours. Maps were provided, showing the plowing schedule for all of Bradford West Gwillimbury's streets.

Joe Coleman, Manager of Business Operations noted that public works will provide updates during major weather events, during working hours from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. - but not after hours.

Councillor Peter Ferragino questioned the gap. "One of the biggest concerns we heard from residents was communications," he said, referring to the response to a major winter storm last season. He suggested it was critical "just to get that information out, because that's what our residents expect of us."

Town Chief Administrative Officer Geoff McKnight explained that only when there are disruptions, would the information be broadcast after-hours, on the website and through Twitter. "Where there is an issue, where the snow is coming down so hard we're removing plows from streets, when police are shutting down streets, that is when we would get that out there," McKnight said.

Deputy Mayor James Leduc complained that the policy left council and the CAO without power. "This is pretty interpretive for your staff. Once we approve this policy, it's completely out of our hands," Leduc said, suggesting that the policy should include "the opportunity" for the CAO to instruct plow operators.

Coleman noted that his crews were all professionals, well-trained and experienced in monitoring road conditions. As for the complaints received during last year's major storm, he admitted the department had been caught off guard, expecting only a 12-hour snowfall.

Snow fell for 24 hours. "The events last year were unfortunate," Coleman said, and "exhausted hours of service" before the storm ended. The first shift started at 4 a.m.; the second shift overlapped, but allowable hours on the road were used up "and it kept snowing and snowing."

The department has six full-time operators and two part-time operators and another proposed full-time position was recently cut from the 2016 budget.

The document included a warning to property owners, who are "required not to place cars, fences, posts, hedges, shrubs, driveway curbs, edging or other obstructions including garbage bins on the road allowance" because they can "pose safety concerns, cause damage to equipment and interference with maintenance operations." The one exception: mailboxes, and the procedure for making claims due to damage from plows was also detailed in the report.

One more reminder: All overnight parking in BVG is banned between the hours of 2 a.m. and 6 a.m. (3 a.m. to 6 a.m. in the downtown Bradford "entertainment district"), from Nov. 1 to May 1, to facilitate snow clearance.

Vigil for Paris victims of terrorism

MIRIAM KING/BRADFORD TIMES

A small group attended a candlelight vigil for the victims of terrorism in Paris, last Thursday night in Bradford. Standing in the westwep parking lot of the Bradford Library, surrounding a single flame protected from the wind by a glass lantern, they shared their thoughts on hearing that terrorists had launched another attack against innocent civilians. The vigil was organized by Cynthia Bredner (holding lamp), through the Bradford Social Network Association, to help create "a community that comes together for a sacred moment."
